

Wednesday Gathering 22/04/27

Kevin Damant: I am taking you off the sidewalks and off the old paths. Where/when I said I was bringing worship into the house, this is going to be a new path and a new dimension. Now is the time to get off the path. I am releasing angels of the pathway to illuminate the way. But I am also releasing angels from the worship group to come and assist you in your worship, to take you to the next level. This is the time when this place will not be the same again, because I am moving and shifting you off the old cycles and the old patterns now is the time and this will be the core, this will be the skeleton of what is to come says the Lord.

Dit McCallum: Every tsunami starts with a ripple, starts with a small wave and begins to build and build. There is a wave coming, and it won't be just a wave it will be wave upon wave upon wave upon wave coming into a tsunami of an overtaking of heaven over you. Though you are small in number yet you can begin with a ripple and allow the sound, the sense and the rhyme and the angels of heaven to overtake you, and to cause a shifting in the atmosphere and a shifting that will not just be temporary for an evening gathering, but will open up heaven. It will open up heaven, it will open up a greater capacity to receive the fullness, but also that it goes out from here, north south east and west, causing an awakening that even people sitting watching the television or doing ordinary life, will sense a shift of the transition that is going on.

The Lord says, do you believe that in your worship you can create, you can create a space for Me to invade? The angels have come, my messengers have come I have dispatched them I have sent them they have a job to do. Partner with them, allow them to take you where I am causing you to be. There is so much more that I am opening up your eyes and you're understanding and your heart to receive and understand.

This not the day of ignorance, this is the day for you to know, for you to act wisely and for you to know where to stand and what to say. But I am doing a work corporately in you, as I gather you together corporately as a Gideon army, as Jehoshaphat army, this is day in your praise and your worship and in your intercession your prayer, your laid down lives on my altar, the Lord says you will see far more than you could imagine, if you will partner with Me.

Jean Smith: The Lord says, will you be a bouncing bomb for me? For I want to release the bouncing bombs that hit the water, that changed trajectory and hit and break the dams. The dams that have been holding back my penetration my saturation of the land. The dams that have been holding back and causing the water to be contained in a cistern and not free flowing, will you be a bouncing bomb for me a bomb that goes into different directions. Will you move for me in my direction, will you be flexible for me and are you prepared to look silly for me. As the spirit moves over the waters, I can use you as bouncing bombs to break through the hard containers that religion has put around people.

Suzanne Farley: This is the new wine and when the new wine comes it will burst out of every old wine skin. The old wine skin cannot contain the new wine, only those who have allowed me to form the new wine skin in them, can receive the new wine. The Lord says, it is not about containing, it's about releasing, it isn't about receiving but it is about being a vessel that my new wine and my power and my glory and my love and all that I am is released. this is a time of commissioning, because I am releasing my very presence, my very power, my very glory as I release this new wine. The Lord says, as you position yourselves as allowed me to make you flexible, as you have allowed me to shift you, it has been a walk of let's adjust this bit here and adjust this bit here and if you look back to see where we have come through together, you will see that I have expanded and expanded and expanded. The Lord says, now is the time to release, to launch and to be that vessel of releasing my power. There is no longer containment, there cannot be containment because my wine, my glory, my power has to reach the world, it has to fill the earth, it has to cover the earth. The Lord says, break out break out and let the glory and the river and the new wine flow from this place to the Nations.
